Aquarion Names New Director of Engineering and Planning

Oxford, MA. - Aquarion Water Company has named Dan Lawrence to the position of Director of Engineering and Planning.

In this role, Lawrence will lead Aquarion's staff of 17 engineering and planning professionals, and will be responsible for the planning, design, and construction of Aquarion's infrastructure in Massachusetts, Connecticut, and New Hampshire.

Lawrence joined Aquarion after serving as a consultant for Weston and Sampson, where he spent 17 years working on infrastructure projects for cities and town in Massachusetts and other New England states.

"I am glad to have the opportunity to be working on several important projects that will improve the reliability of our systems serving the residents of Millbury and Oxford," said Lawrence.

His experience includes over 300 miles of pipeline installations, as well as dam rehabilitations, drainage projects, roadways, and stream restorations.

"Dan is a great addition to the Aquarion team", said John Walsh, Vice President of Operations for Aquarion. "Dan has a wealth of experience designing and constructing municipal infrastructure, and he understands the importance and value of working collaboratively with the communities that we serve," Walsh added.

About Aquarion Water Company of Massachusetts:

Aquarion Water Company of Massachusetts is the public water supply company for nearly 19,000 homes and businesses in the towns of Millbury, Oxford, Hingham, Hull, and North Cohasset. Aquarion Water Company is the largest investor-owned water utility in New England, and it has been in the public water supply business since 1857. Across its operations, Aquarion strives to act as a responsible steward of the environment and to assist the communities it serves in promoting sustainable practices.

Aquarion's water system serving Millbury - as well as its water system serving Hingham, Hull and North Cohasset - was presented with an award "For Outstanding Performance and Achievement in 2013" by the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (DEP). Of the 1,733 public water systems in Massachusetts, only nineteen systems received the award.
